Review: A comprehensive harm-reduction resource that examines the issue of injecting drug use, in relation to the transmission of HIV, and sets out to improve treatment. Takes a global perspective examining patterns of transmission due to injecting drug use, examines risk factors, barriers to prevention and identifies key affected populations. Useful information for people who use drugs, families, carers, primary health care professionals and specialist AOD workers.

Review: Peak body providing comprehensive peer support for people who use drugs, their families, carers and peers. The site provides extensive harm reduction education, safe injecting advice, practical support, information and advocacy. The e-news tackles current issues such as pharmacotherapy, effects of using popular illicit substances, without stigma or bias allowing for maximum health promotion and harm reduction adherence. Demonstrates exceptional empathy for people juggling health issues with their dependence on illicit drugs. Although membership is open to NSW individuals and organisations, the policy and harm reduction materials have global relevance.

Asia Pacific Creator: Asian Network of People who use drugs [ANPUD] Last reviewed: 16/10/2018

Review: Multicultural networking and advocacy organisation promoting harm reduction and human rights for people who use drugs in the broader Asian region. The organisation includes 'Strategies for Treatment' and harm reduction techniques to reduce infectious diseases such as HIV and Hepatitis C. Promotion of training for frontline workers and compassionate policy to protect consumers from punitive punishment are key objectives. While there is a member's only section to the site, all resources and guides are free to download. Web design is clear and easy to use.

—TheBodyPro.com Last reviewed: 18/01/2018

Review: A comprehensive site with current news, research and resources on HIV/AIDS, and alcohol and other drugs. Originally designed as a harm reduction site to be used by people who use drugs, or those who have been diagnosed with an HIV/AIDS infection, or individuals identifying with the GLBTIQ community.

The content is also useful for health professionals with an interest in prevention, harm reduction and medical intervention of infectious diseases. There are useful links to recent research specific to HIV treatment for substance users.

Australia, WA Creator: St John of God Health Care Last reviewed: 20/02/2017

Review: A free and confidential assessment, home-based detox and withdrawal service. The program helps people who misuse drugs or alcohol to reduce or stop their alcohol and other drug use. The service encourages families to be actively involved in supporting their friend or family member to transition to living a changed lifestyle that is not dependent on alcohol or other drugs. GPs and agency AOD staff are an active part of the detox process. Where required, the service supports referrals and aftercare.
