Review: A drug policy reform network of current and former members of law enforcement and criminal justice communities who support drug regulation rather than prohibition. An interesting advocacy approach incorporating harm reduction with law reform. The site is developed by and for police, prosecutors, judicial professionals, US Federal agents and border control personnel.

Review: Collects, collates and reports on synthetic drug trends, new psychoactive substances, amphetamine use statistics, interventions of movements of illicit substances through customs, and arrests or other public data of drug-related criminal activity in the Asia-Pacific region. There is also an overview of the effects of amphetamine-type substances and interesting information relating to the illicit manufacture of drugs. Useful links to databases from a number of countries. Most relevant to police, law enforcement and other professionals requiring intelligence about trends and patterns of use of illicit substances.

Review: A non-profit organization of researchers whose common goal is the advancement of Prevention Science - the study of the mechanisms by which adverse health outcomes may be prevented by early intervention, education, environmental change, and policy change. Access to an extensive database of publication abstracts, statistics and project outlines. This site comes into its own when looking for evidence-based reports and research linked to topics such as safe partying, law enforcement of minimum age drinking, policy and planning for communities, under-age drinking, and alcohol outlet control. Teachers, legal studies students, and social policy students and professionals will find helpful information.

USA Creator: Campaign for Tobacco-Free Kids

Last reviewed: 02/10/2018

Review: A national non-government campaign to protect children from tobacco sales, the use of tobacco and exposure to secondhand smoke.

Excellent advocacy site covering state, national and global initiatives, research, policy, law, law enforcement and publications. Access to global statistics and facts, a media centre and ways to take action against tobacco harms. The organisation also acts as a tobacco industry watchdog with key features detailed on the site. This is a must-view site for public health professionals, and teachers and students addressing any tobacco-related subject.
