Review: Provides comprehensive clinical assessment and treatment services and resources for acquired brain injury and associated complex needs. There is a PDF handbook addressing alcohol and other drug induced brain injury including sections on assessment and intervention options. Services in Victoria and NSW provide support for people who are at risk of being homeless. The site also details the organisation's options for training, professional development, education, research and news.

Review: Evidence-based drug education resources and programs. Access to innovative and relevant resources based on current research and best practice aimed at young people, parents, teachers and professionals. Good discussion points for parents and adolescents are promoted throughout the site providing subject matter that is comparable to Australian resources. Useful when preparing for parent evenings that promote safe partying.

Review: Excellent prevention resource focusing on adolescence with comprehensive video library and virtual clearinghouse. Provides an extensive range of program outlines, resources, links, conferences and current news items. Includes sections for students with comprehensive tools and resources to assist in prevention strategies for individuals and policy guidelines for communities. The Clearinghouse has a very useful collection of data related to Foetal Alcohol Spectrum disorders.

Review: Independent US-based business producing conservative drug education curriculum for middle school-aged students and parent materials. Includes abstracts of evaluation research. If choosing to use any of the curriculum materials in Australian classrooms, it is important to insert the relevant Australian data and to ensure the lessons meet Australian National Curriculum guidelines.
