Review: A campaign to empower Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples living in south eastern Queensland to make healthy choices such as quitting smoking and accessing health services. Local community health services offer a number of programs, fact sheets and resources designed to increase the awareness of possible health issues and possible actions to adopt to commit to healthy lifestyle choices for both individuals and their families. The initiative has a vision to decrease the gap between the health of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people and other Australian citizens.

Australia, NSW Creator: NSW Elder Abuse helpline and resource unit Last reviewed: 01/03/2018

Review: Support services, including a telephone helpline for people living in NSW, which provides information and referrals for seniors who are victims of psychological, financial, sexual, neglect or physical abuse. There is a PDF Toolkit which includes a section on risk factors for abuse. This section clearly identifies alcohol, substance or polydrug use (including prescription and OTC medications) abuse as significant risk factors. An excellent information site for professionals, GP's, families and carers.
