Review: Peak body with up-to-date information, fact sheets, research, prevention and early intervention materials, a telephone helpline, a free self-help quit app and a user-friendly blog about cannabis (including synthetic cannabinoids) and related substances. The concerns and needs of parents and indigenous people are particularly noted and addressed with resources and forums. This is the go-to site if you or someone you know is using any cannabis product and you are concerned about possible health effects or legal issues. Excellent targeted information for professionals in the alcohol and other drugs area, employers, teachers, counsellors, nurses, GPs, pharmacists and those in the criminal justice system.
