Review: The 'Drugs' app contains information on a number of different psychoactive substances. Unfortunately it is very text heavy and the accuracy of the information is questionable as it has been gathered from all over the internet and isn't referenced properly. The content is wordy and offers no specific harm reduction advice. The app offers a forum for discussion about the various individual drugs but it isn't moderated and appears to have limited interaction. There are better apps and websites that contain this type of information available. Available in Google Play.
